

REIGN OF TERROR IS NIPPED IN BUD

Plot To Blow Up Noted New York Cathedral As Signal For Pillage and Murder By Anarchists, Is Frustrated By Arrest Of Principals — Police Make Claims Sounding Like Pipe Dream.

Associated Press.
New York, March 2.—An attempt to blow up St. Patrick's Cathedral with a bomb today, and the arrest of men by detectives who had been formed for months of their activities, was followed by an announcement made at police headquarters that the arrests had balked an anarchist plot to kill with bombs Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and other wealthy men.
Thereafter the anarchists, according to the police, were to inaugurate New York City a reign of terror comparable only to the days of the French revolution.
It was part of the plot, the police said, for gangs of men, armed with guns and revolvers, to appear simultaneously in various parts of the city to shoot and to pillage; the big banks of New York City were to be blown up and many wealthy men were to be slain.
The wrecking of the cathedral was to be the signal for the opening of the elaborate campaign of murder and looting.
The plan, according to the police, was to place the bombs in the homes of Andrew Carnegie, the Rockefellers, Cornelius Vanderbilt.
So far had the plot progressed to this end that the manufacture of the bombs, the police say, had already been started.

With these and other capitalists disposed of the anarchists planned, according to the police, to invade the financial districts and lay their bombs in the city's biggest banks. General looting was to follow.
For months a central office detective had worked in the inner circle of the anarchists, according to the police story. A detective accompanied the bomb thrower to the cathedral and sat with him while he lighted the bomb and hurled it at the altar.
Immediately the cathedral, in which 800 persons sat at worship, became alive with detectives, whose presence had been unsuspected by the bomb carrier. The detective sitting beside him placed him under arrest; detectives sitting in the pews behind dashed into the aisle and stamped out the sputtering fuse.
The congregation hardly realized what had happened when it was all over, and there was no panic.
At police headquarters the alleged bomb thrower said he was Frank Abarno, 24 years old. Chas. Carbone, an 18-year-old boy, was also arrested charged with complicity.
When Abarno entered the cathedral door, his bomb in a package under his coat and a detective at his side, he walked onto a stage whose very setting had been placed there by detectives. Two scrub women on their knees in the vestibule through which he passed were detectives, and the priest who met them at the door was a detective. Detectives in disguise were sprinkled all over the cathedral.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT REOPENS

By Associated Press.
Cincinnati, March 2. — Twenty years after her husband filed his suit for $3,500,000 against the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Company, Mrs. Gene D. McKell, widow of a Chillicothe banker, was in court again today at the fourth hearing of the case, this time in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.
Breach of contract, involving what McKell alleged was an agreement with the railroad to co-operate in opening West Virginia coal fields, is charged in the suit. The case has gone through the District Court three times.
The late Judge Thomson, in the first trial, found for the defendant. At the second hearing Judge Hollister's jury returned a verdict of $300,000 for Mrs. McKell. The Court of Appeals reversed this decision. At the third trial Mrs. McKell was awarded $125,000 and this is being appealed now.

WILSON WILL ASK POINTED QUERIES

U. S. To Ascertain What Means Allies Will Employ To End Neutral Shipping — Hints That American Shipping Is To Continue—No Nation Has Right To Change Rules Of War Because Methods Have Changed, Says Wilson.

By Associated Press.
Washington, March 2.—The United States will send a note to Great Britain and France, in answer to the one received yesterday, inquiring what means will be taken in carrying out the policy of holding up supplies being carried to and from Germany.
President Wilson told callers today that the British-French note outlined in very general terms a policy, but did not define the means of carrying it into effect.
President Wilson refused to discuss the subject in detail, but said that no nation has the right to change the rules of warfare because the methods of war have changed.
He indicated that the United States will not change its previously announced position, but will continue to make efforts to have the belligerents respect American shipping of a non-contraband character.
The President said it was not clear in his own mind whether the new action of the British and French governments established a blockade of Germany, although that would be the general effect of the order.
He indicated that even though a real blockade were established no question affecting the neutrality of the United States would be precipitated by the continued voyages of American ships to Germany.

FEAR 160 MEN PERISH IN MINE WRECKED BY A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

By Associated Press.
Hinton, W. Va., March 2.—An explosion occurred in the mine of the New River and Pocahontas Consolidated Coal Company, three miles from Thurmond, W. Va., at 8:30 o'clock today.
The mine connects with another mine, each employing 80 men, all of whom are believed to have been in the pits when the explosion occurred.
Rescue parties were at once organized and the fans were set going within 15 minutes after the explosion, but at 10:30 o'clock none of the miners had been brought out.
Assistance was hurried to the mine from nearby towns and a rescue car of the Bureau of Mines was ordered from Glenallum, W. Va., to the scene.
As the day wore on additional volunteers entered the mine, and by noon two forces of 20 men each were clearing away the fallen coal and rock in the main entry of Mine No. 3.
Half a mile from the opening they came across a miner badly hurt and unable to tell anything about the explosion. Here they encountered a mass of debris, and it was said that two or three hours must elapse before it could be removed and the workings beyond penetrated.

SCATHING REBUKE FOR THE COLORADO MILITIA

Investigators Submit Report In House Today and Bitter Arraignment of Work of Militia Features Report—Point to Conclusive Evidence of Peonage.

By Associated Press.
Washington, March 2.—A scathing arraignment of the Colorado militia for its treatment of striking miners and their families is contained in a voluminous report submitted to the house today by the mines and mining sub-committee, which investigated conditions in the Colorado coal fields under a resolution adopted a year ago in January. While scoring conditions generally in the coal fields and criticizing many of the acts of the mine operators, including alleged violation of state laws, the committee reports that no evidence was found of a conspiracy in restraint of trade to limit the output of the mines, nor conclusive proof of the existence of peonage.
The strike was settled long before the committee completed its report, so no specific recommendations are made. The committee appeals, however, for arbitration in such situations. It declares that these disturbances are nation-wide in their importance; that the federal government is the only power competent to deal with them, and, after referring to the testimony of John D. Rockefeller Jr., who disclaimed responsibility for Colorado conditions, adds:
"Absentee owners or directors by their absence from the scene of such disturbances cannot escape their moral responsibility for conditions in and about properties in which they are interested."
Liberal extracts from the 2,600 pages of testimony taken by the committee are embodied in the report, with this comment:
"Considerable testimony on both sides of the controversy, we believe, unreliable, and no confidence should be placed in it. Colorado had good mining laws and such that ought to afford protection to the miner if they were enforced, yet in this state the percentage of fatalities is larger than any other, showing there is undoubtedly something wrong in reference to the management of its coal mines. It is contended by the miners as one of their grievances that the operators do not obey the law, and however good the laws may be if not observed they are of no protection."

The committee denounces John M. Chase, adjutant general of the militia of the state, for his refusal to testify except upon conditions that he would not be questioned by representatives of the miners and declares that he "was over-bearing to all who came in contact with him."
Reviewing the testimony of many witnesses, the report says from the time the strike was called until the federal troops were sent into the field by the President of the United States there was a series of battles which seemed to be fierce while they lasted and a number of people were killed and wounded on both sides. It contends as inexcusable both the attack on Berwind Camp by men alleged to have been strikers as well as the assault upon Berber Tent colony by armed guards using a machine gun.
Some of the men brought into Colorado by detective agencies employed to guard the mines, the committee finds had been in the same kind of service in West Virginia and they brought with them the same machine gun which had been used in an armored car against strikers in that state.
The committee criticizes the state authorities for failing to prevent the sale of firearms to the contending forces.

80,000 GERMANS ARE FORCED BACK INTO OWN LANDS

Operations of the French and British fleets against the Turkish fortifications on the Dardanelles, which, during the past week, have taken the warships of the allies some 15 miles through their well defended narrow waterway, are at a standstill today on account of a gale.
This respite is likely to prove of benefit to the Turks, but the allies will resume the attack as soon as possible.
Petrograd reports the completion of Russian military operations around Przasnysz, and claims to have thrown back to the frontier, at this point, two German army corps.
Berlin officially announces the repulse of Russian attacks north of Lomza, but says that otherwise there is nothing to report along the eastern front.
Vienna reports successful action in the western section of the Carpathians.
The British press is virtually unanimous in praise of Premier Asquith's announcement of Great Britain's reprisals against submarine warfare of Germany.
It is reported that a British collier has rammed a German submarine in the Channel.

TO DRAW PROTEST FROM UNCLE SAM

Allies' New Policy Shuts Off All Trade With Teutons.

MANY INDUSTRIES HARD HIT

American Shipping Faces the Certainty of Capture or Destruction by the Warring Nations—Vessels Consigned to "Presumed Enemy Destination" to Be Seized by Great Britain and Her Allies.

Washington, March 2.—The United States will emphatically protest the allies' new policy of shutting off all trade with Germany, Austria and Turkey. This government will be obliged to voice its opposition to this extraordinary infringement on its rights as vigorously as it refused to acquiesce in Germany's threat to destroy neutral shipping.

The disastrous effects of this new policy and its legal character are regarded here as equaled only by the operations proposed by Germany under the recent war zone decree.

The result of this latest move by Great Britain and France, so far as the United States is concerned, is this:

The Washington government finds itself confronted with all of the dangers to which it was subjected under the German war zone campaign and in addition is now facing the certainty that its merchant vessels with cargoes destined for Germany or any of her allies will be seized and detained. In other words, United States vessels which, under all the rules and precedents of international law have the right to proceed without molestation, will run the danger of being torpedoed and sunk if they attempt to reach an English port and will be seized and detained if they carry goods suspected of being destined to Germany and her allies.

It is frankly acknowledged here that United States commerce between these two millstones is in an extremely critical situation. The situation is all the more serious in that Great Britain's threat does not apply solely to cargoes consigned to Germany, Austria and Turkish ports, but to anywhere for "presumed enemy destination, ownership or origin."

This means that American shipments to neutral ports, if there is reason to suspect that the cargoes will reach Great Britain's enemies will be detained. Not only this, but shipments from Germany, Austria and Turkey to the United States and other neutrals will fall within the ban of the British-French decree.

Trade With Teuton Allies.

The complete trade, export and import, of the United States with Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey in 1913 amounted to $588,000,000. Of course a large part of this was lost through contraband prohibitions when the war began, though trade with neighboring neutral countries showed usual increases. All this will be lost under the operation of the British-French decree.

In addition, the new British policy is likely to have a serious effect upon some industries in the United States, notably the textile industry, which depends upon patented German products, such as dyestuffs.

The south, with its supply of cotton, is likely to feel more the effect of the policy. In 1913 Germany took 2,561,000 bales of cotton, valued at $168,200,000, and Austria-Hungary consumed over $60,000,000 of the American staple. The shipments of cotton to Germany, which have been proceeding with considerable freedom, will be halted by the British policy of retaliation.

Formal notice of the policy of retaliation adopted by the allies was brought to this government by Jules Jusserand and Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, the French and British ambassadors. They handed Mr. Bryan identical notes from their governments announcing the determination of their governments to hold themselves free to detain and take into port ships carrying goods of presumed enemy destination, ownership or origin.

Negotiations Off.

This notice was conveyed to all the neutral governments. So far as the United States is concerned it disposes of course of the negotiations set on foot by this government in London and Berlin looking to the granting of the safety of neutral shipping and preservation of neutral trade rights. The British ambassador presented notice, however, that his government would reply later to the American note, though it is recognized that this reply can have no effect on the situation in view of the policy of retaliation now initiated by the allies.

The scope of the new policy is so broad that if it is made effective all trade with Germany, Austria and Turkey will be impossible. It is proposed to seize not only goods which may be "presumed" to be of enemy destination, but also goods owned by the enemies of the allies or exported from their territory. That is, trade between Germany and Austria and Turkey and the rest of the world will even be impossible by shipments of goods in and out through neutral countries.

URGE PASSAGE OF AGRICULTURAL BILL

Columbus, March 2.—Treason against the state was the charge placed against veterinarians, stock raisers and farmers who conceal the fact that a herd of cattle is infected with foot and mouth disease by Dr. David S. White, dean of the veterinary college of Ohio State university, before the house committee on agriculture. Dr. White appeared with a number of breeders of thoroughbred stock to urge the passage of the agricultural board bill, which carries a provision that owners of thoroughbred animals may be allowed additional compensation above the beef price when such animals are killed on orders of state authorities.

CHINESE FEAR WAR

Washington, March 2.—The belief that insistence by Japan upon the twenty-one demands she has made upon China will precipitate a war between the two countries is expressed in an appeal from the Chinese Young Men's Christian association of Washington, received by President Wilson. The Chinese organization asks President Wilson's moral support. The petition says: "To prevent this great wrong to China, to prevent the war which must follow if Japan presses her unrighteous demands, we appeal to you and to the Christian people of this great country to give us at least your moral support; to study the situation carefully; to give it publicity, and thus to awaken a public opinion that will make the horrible wrong which is threatening China an impossibility."

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED

New York, March 2.—Two indictments were brought in by the federal grand jury against the Hamburg-American Steamship company and Karl Buenz, its general representative. George Koetter, the company's general superintendent; Adolf Hachmeister, Felix Steffner and Walter Poppenshouse are also named in the two indictments, which charge conspiracy to defraud the United States. One indictment is for conspiracy to defraud this government by causing collectors of the United States customs "by means of false statements to make, record and transmit untrue and inaccurate records." The other charges such conspiracy "in and by obtaining clearance papers by means of false manifests."

HOUSE ESTABLISHES RURAL CREDIT SYSTEM

Washington, March 2.—The house passed a bill establishing a rural credit system by an informal vote of 160 to 99. A formal vote will come later, but legislation of this character is certain to be sent to the president as a rider to the agricultural appropriation bill. The rural credit plan adopted by the house embodies the principle of government aid.

COMPROMISE ON NAVAL BILL

Washington, March 2.—A compromise on the naval building program was one of the important developments of the day, conferees on this much discussed measure agreeing to two submarines of the seagoing type and sixteen coast defense submarines. The house bill had provided for but one seagoing submarine and eleven of the coast defense type. House conferees yielded to the senate demand for the sixteen coast defense vessels, but would not accept the senate proposal for five of the oceangoing type.

HARVESTER COMPANY FILES BRIEF

Appeal Taken From the Decree of Federal District Court.

Washington, March 2.—Suggesting a receivership forced sale of property and loss to stockholders of $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 if the decree of the court stands, the International Harvester Company of New Jersey, known as the "harvester trust," filed its brief in the supreme court in the appeal which it has taken from the judgment and decree of the district court of the United States for the district of Minnesota. This decree adjudged the harvester company to be an unlawful combination in restraint of trade under the Sherman law. Judge Hook wrote the opinion holding that the harvester trust was an unlawful combination and Judge Sanborn dissented. Judge Smith concurred in the majority opinion. The fact that the conclusion of the court was a divided one has aroused more than usual interest in the case. Attorneys for the trust insist that the combination of interests was not for the purpose of monopolizing the trade in farm machinery, but that the International Harvester company was organized "for the purpose of securing the capital and men necessary adequately to develop the foreign business in harvesting machines and to place the domestic business upon a sound economic basis by manufacturing new lines of agricultural implements that would give an all year round employment."

PROGRESSIVES ARE ENROLLED

These men will serve on the executive committee of the new organization with Senator Gallinger, Senator Weeks, Representatives Madden, Moore and Fairchild, all of whom were "regulars" in 1912. The association, which is said to be a permanent one, will conduct literary campaigns during national elections independent of any activities of the kind that may be directed by the Republican and congressional committees.

The People's Attitude

It is to be regretted that there seems to be a sub-current of feeling moulding public opinion to the outcry that the United States is not prepared for war as it should be and tending to lessen that confidence and respect which are the basis of true patriotism.

The effect of this restless criticism, whether the outcome of insidious intentional poisoning or due to the disturbing influences and violent emotions aroused by conditions, can have only a demoralizing effect upon the American people.

It also creates an impression upon other nations, tending to make them less respectful in attitude from the very temper of our own people.

Naturally with "half the world desperate and the other half perplexed," with the element of jingoism always rampant and the difficulty involved in the mere fact of remaining a neutral nation, the question of the United States' equipment for war becomes of growing importance as a subject for public discussion.

Excited to the stage that it is impossible to retain the normal view point, public opinion inclines to flaunt the weakness of the United States in its preparation for war.

Much of this sub-current criticism comes from lack of knowledge and this distorted vision.

The United States is not asleep — has not been asleep. True, she has not felt the iron ring around her neck, has not needed territorial acquisition; has had no ambition to gain power at the terrible price of war, but she has realized the need of protection for her people and their interests.

Enormous appropriations have been made year after year for the nation's equipment, should war force itself upon her, and these appropriations have been and are being greatly increased under present conditions.

The government possesses secrets of which the average citizen does not dream. It would be a policy most unwise to make the public into confidence as to true inward conditions.

It would be well for our people to remember that America gave to the world the submarine, the aeroplane, the most powerful of all explosives and if we have not developed them to the extent of the fighting nations, it has been because we have not needed to do so; not because we have not the brains and the skill and the daring to use them to their full possibilities.

American gunners are the greatest in the world. Every American is a born fighter—he may not have had the discipline of military training, but his will and zeal goes far in helping him to a speedy grasp of the tactics of war.

The people of the United States do not want war. The authorities at the helm of government will do everything possible to prevent such a tragedy as it would mean to our country.

But if conditions were to reach the worst and the United States were forced into the conflict it would be found that the United States was not without resources and that the need of preparation for defense of the republic had been more fully realized by the government than people had been led to believe.

There is general concurrence of opinion that there should be immediate strengthening of our navy and our army and appropriations sufficient for efficient defense. The dangers of our international relations demand ample provision for protection.

But to stir up a spirit of disrespect for our nation and to foster it by inflammable statements made largely from ignorance, is a form of nothing less than treason.

The United States has built its success upon too firm a foundation and has too strong a foothold as an independent power to be subjected to anything bordering upon lack of confidence on the part of Americans, who have been given, through opportunities, the greatest privileges of any people upon earth.

We may trust the wise and patriotic administration at Washington to safely guard the interests of the nation. Violent expression of individual opinion about preparedness for war by those who know nothing about the real facts existent or probable is not helpful in the least.

This is a splendid time for noisy agitation to keep real and quiet.

Federal Government Should Give More Aid to State Militia

By HENRY D. HATFIELD, Governor of West Virginia

In my opinion it is the duty of the federal government to provide better for the state militia. THE APPARENT NEED OF A LARGER ORGANIZED FIGHTING FORCE HAS COME TO US ALL, AND THE BEST WAY TO INCREASE OUR FORCE OF TRAINED MEN IS THROUGH THE MILITIA.

In West Virginia the state government is doing about all it can be expected to do for the support of the militia. The federal government is doing more if the militia is to be brought up to the standard required by the war department and maintained at that standard. Some regulation along the line of the pending militia pay bill is badly needed. There is no lack of patriotism among the men of the country, but they are to earn a livelihood and cannot be expected to give a large amount of their time to military duty without some recompense.

IN MY OPINION, THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS RECEIVING ADEQUATE RETURNS FOR THE AMOUNT OF MONEY INVESTED IN THE STATE MILITIA, AND MORE CANNOT BE EXPECTED UNLESS MORE GENEROUS PROVISION IS MADE.

Poetry For Today

RUSES.

(Respectfully submitted to the British Government). Great Churchill's plan to fool the foe is simple and unique— You only take a neutral flag and hoist it at your peak.

Thereby a ship with funnels four looks just like one with two. Because the pattern has been changed on her Red, White and Blue.

Now, cannot you improve on this, and so protect your towns, As well as all your gallant ships at anchor in the Downs?

Old London, with the Stars and Stripes, might well pass for New York, And Baltimore for Maryland instead of County Cork.

To mouth of Thames (N-O-R-E) just add four letters more.

Then hoist the Danish ensign and, behold, 'tis Elsinore!

And Paris will be Washington if, on the Eiffel Tower, They raise the flag of U. S. A. (a well-known neutral Power).

Your sailors might wear Leghorn hats, and, out upon the blue,

They'd look like sons of Italy (at present neutral, too);

And, if upon your King the Hun would try to work some ill, With pickelhaube on his head he's pass for Uncle Bill.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Guarding Against Colds.

If you find that you catch cold very easily when you are tired or a bit run down you should take extra care of yourself at such times. Do not recklessly expose yourself when you are fatigued. It is far wiser to relinquish any engagements you have made for the evening if you come home all tired out. It is better to give up everything, take a hot bath and go to bed early for a long night's sleep when you are feeling physically exhausted. Going out for a good time when you are in this condition only leaves you open to infection or to chill.

A Paradise.

"You seem to have traveled quite a lot," remarked the landlady to the star boarder. "Which of the countries that you have visited would you prefer to make your home if you had a choice?" "Patagonia," replied the star boarder. "And why Patagonia?" asked the landlady.

"Prunes cost $2 a pound in Patagonia," replied the star boarder.

The Text and the Sermon.

Some men are always being stung And to hard luck are prone, But any man who holds his tongue Is sure to hold his own.

See above. There are sound logic, much wit, mighty good advice and some poetry in the lines we have placed at the head of the editorial column of the Wapakoneta Daily News this evening, and because we didn't know where else to look for inspiration we turned to Luke McLuke's funny column, and our needs were at once supplied. There is little need of any person being stung if he follows the suggestions laid down in such a neat manner by Dr. McLuke, and if a man will keep well within himself and his hand upon his pocketbook the blue sky larks will have to seek other employment than that of plucking the unwary and greedily gullible. Few persons ever get stung who are not bent on doing a little plucking themselves; hence they get mighty little sympathy when it becomes noised about that they have been plucked.—Wapakoneta (O.) ### Luke McLuke Says:

Some men are such consistent losers that any time they break even they imagine they are winners.

The sex knowledge people take themselves mighty seriously in their endeavors to enlighten the school children. But it will probably be a long time before Havelock Ellis replaces Mother Goose in our nurseries.

Once in awhile a woman is lucky and has as many clothes ten years later as she had when she was married.

There are all sorts of people in the world, including the man who refers to a burlesque queen as an actress.

The reason why a man tries to make his machine beat everything else on the street and hit nothing but the high places when he is turning corners is because he is going to have plenty of time when they stretch him out on a slab in the morgue.

When you are sitting beside a pretty girl who seems to like you it is mighty hard to keep from resting your arm on the back of the seat she is occupying.

A woman gets pretty mad when a man loses some money gambling. But she doesn't hit up a real boiling rage until she discovers that he has lost some money by accommodating his ornery relatives.

It is easy to make a hit with the average wife. Just tell her how light her bread is and how heavy her baby is.

You can wear cheap clothes and fool some people. But you never fool anybody when you are wearing cheap jewelry.

There are a whole lot of men in the world who can argue learnedly on the constitution and the Monroe doctrine who imagine that Daniel Webster compiled Webster's Dictionary.

Some people seem to think so. But it wasn't Lincoln's whiskers that made him a great man.

And where is the old fashioned man who could prove almost anything by the Bible?

CHINESE BOYCOTT JAPGOODS

New Society Organized on the Pacific Coast.

MOVE TO BE MADE WORLD-WIDE

Embargo Started by Chinese-Americans in an Attempt to Force Japan to Recede From Its Demands on the Chinese Government — Every Chinese Merchant in San Francisco Enrolled in the Organization.

San Francisco, March 2.—A nationwide and ultimately worldwide boycott upon the purchase and use of Japanese products is the announced aim of a new Chinese society organized here. The embargo has been started by Chinese-Americans in an attempt to force Japan to recede from its demands on the Chinese government. A propaganda spreading campaign for the formation of similar societies in all of the larger cities of the United States was begun simultaneously with the organization of the parent society.

Numbered in the new society, which has not been named, but is described by its secretary, M. Q. Fong, a merchant and a graduate of the University of California, as a purely patriotic organization, is every Chinese merchant in the city.

Japanese consular officials, when acquainted with the news of the actual organization of the boycott, were inclined to give it but a cursory consideration. It was said, however, that the new movement could in no way gather weight enough to influence the "settled" policy of the Japanese government toward China.

Whether the boycott plan originated with the Six Companies of California or was inspired in China, it is not ascertained. It was admitted, however, that the effect of the propaganda work of the Six Companies would be watched with interest in a number of Pacific coast points where the outcome of the movement was independently reported to doubtful.

Yasutaro Numano, Japanese consul general here, denied a report that he had called a meeting of Japanese for the purpose of discussing the boycott. He intimated, however, that his countrymen might retaliate by instituting a boycott against Chinese merchants.

RED JACKET CURE FOR RATS.

Sew on the Coats, Then Give Rodents Free Run.

Pointers on how to get rid of the ubiquitous rat, from sewing a red jacket on him to dipping him in tar, are contained in a bulletin just issued by the Massachusetts state board of agriculture and compiled by Edward H. Forbush, state ornithologist. The following advice as to how to conduct an exterminating warfare is contained in the bulletin: "Use cats, terriers, particularly the fox terrier, and ferrets; sew a red jacket on a captive rat or paint him; then release him; place a collar and a bell on a live rat and release him; dip him in tar and liberate him; also place tar in rat holes, runs and burrows; sprinkle chloride of lime around rat habitats or use carbolic acid."

DISTRICT HOSPITAL COST PLACED AT ABOUT $50,000

State Board of Health Official Estimates Cost of Proposed Hospital For This District, and Gives Data To Aid Commissioners in Reaching Decision on Proposal—Another Meeting Soon.

County Auditor Henkle is in receipt of a communication from Robert G. Patterson, of the State Board of Health, submitting information regarding the proposed new District Tuberculosis Hospital, which the counties of Fayette, Ross, Pickaway, Pike and Scioto have under contemplation.

A meeting of the Commissioners of the various counties was held in Chillicothe last month, and another meeting is to be held in the near future, to further consider the advisability of erecting and maintaining the district hospital.

The plan provided by law for the care of tuberculosis is the erection of a hospital by two or more counties, to be used jointly, and some of the facts connected with the erection of such a building are given by Mr. Paterson as follows:

A hospital for handling 50 patients will cost to build and equip $50,000 and upward.

A tract of land from 20 to 200 acres in extent is suggested as a site, and the land should include forest, orchard and fields to be cultivated. Good water supply, good drainage, and proximity to railroad or traction, are essentials.

Mr. Paterson says in part: "The economical operation of a hospital or sanatorium after it is finished and filled with patients, as of much more importance than the initial cost of construction. Fayette county has had an average of 29 deaths from tuberculosis each year since 1909. In 1913 the number was 20. The estimated number of cases in this county at present is 145. Pickaway has approximately 185 cases; Pike has 170; Ross 380; Scioto 500 cases, a total of about 1,380 cases in the district. From one-third to one-half require treatment in a hospital, it is stated.

Mr. Paterson estimates that a hospital with a capacity of at least 150 persons would be necessary for this district. The average time spent in a hospital by a patient is four months.

A hospital of 150 capacity, for treatment of both incipient and advanced cases of the disease, would cost approximately $150,000. Mr. Paterson states that a 50-bed hospital would go a long way toward meeting the needs of the proposed district, and that such a hospital would cost $50,000.

Fayette's part of the cost of constructing a tuberculosis hospital would be $9,500, providing the total cost did not exceed $50,000. On the same basis the cost to other counties would be: Pickaway, $12,150; Pike, $2,850; Ross, $12,500; Scioto, $13,000.

Just when the next meeting of the commissioners of the various counties will be held has not been announced. It is more than probable that Fayette county will enter into the agreement with the other counties.

BETTER DAYS AHEAD FOR LABORING MEN

Laboring men, scores of whom have been out of work part of the winter, are now beholding the glow of plenty of work as it appears above the horizon.

This week the Washington Manufacturing Company's plant is running full blast and other factories are employing a full quota of help, with prospects of another factory or two opening here before the year is over.

In addition to this the street paving will give employment to large numbers of local laborers. Building activities will be up to the standard, and other avenues offering employment are on the point of opening or have opened.

CHILD LABOR IS SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Prof. Morgan delivered a most instructive lecture on "Child Labor" at the High School building Monday night, one of the series in the Extension Course.

The lecture was splendidly illustrated by 75 slides.

The audience was considerably increased over former ones and the interest in these lectures is steadily growing.

Next Monday night Prof. Morgan talks on "Industrial Insurance and Widow's Pensions."

FIRST MEETING OF KIND HELD HERE

The first meeting of its kind ever held in this city occurred Monday when Mayor Chas. Coffey and Chief of Police Moore met upon invitation meeting the needs of the proposed district, and that such a hospital would cost $50,000.

ministers and officials enjoyed a half hour's discussion of important questions dealing with conditions generally in regard to the morality of the city.

Both Mayor Coffey and Chief Moore addressed the ministers, and several of the pastors entered into the discussion. Among the subjects discussed were boys under age frequenting pool rooms, enforcing the laws prohibiting sales of liquor.

Both Mayor Coffey and Chief Moore expressed themselves as greatly pleased to have the assistance of the ministers and their congregations in carrying on the work of law enforcement and this was pledged to the officials.

HAD NO LICENSE COST HIM JUST $3

A man struck the city Monday and was making a house to house canvass offering for sale certain fancy work goods, when the police were notified of the man's presence and picked him up. He had been selling goods without a license, and when he was escorted to the Mayor's office he was informed that a license would cost him $5, and that he was liable to a fine of a similar amount and the costs.

The man finally produced $3 and said he would bring the remaining $2 as soon as he could get hold of it later in the day. A short time afterward he was seen boarding a train to leave the city, and did not return.

The authorities ask that citizens generally notify them if a house-to-house salesman appears, and if no license has been issued to the man, he will be dealt with accordingly.

INJUNCTION SUIT STOPS WORK ON EAST COURT STREET SEWER

Injunction has been granted by the Common Pleas Court as sought by Frank A. Chaffin, in a petition filed Tuesday afternoon against the City of Washington, and Charles Gortner as service director.

The plaintiff, in his action, appeals to the court to prevent the city from tapping into what he declares is a private sewer on East Court street of which the plaintiff is part owner, stating that the sewer is even now inadequate to the use of its owners, and especially in time of heavy rains when it has caused repeated flooding of streets and cellars in the vicinity.

The sewer in question, the petition asserts, extends from Court street in a northerly direction.

H. H. Sanderson is the attorney for the plaintiff.

THE BOY FARMER

Or a Member of the Corn Club

By ASA PATRICK

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

SYNOPSIS.

Sam Powell, inspired by a government agent, plans to make a scientific farmer of himself and to compete for prizes awarded to the Boys' Corn club.

Sam works hard cleaning up and fertilizing the wornout farm. Miles Fagan ridicules scientific farming, but lets his boy join the corn club.

While blowing out stumps Sam saves Joe Watson's life. Sam plans his contest acre of corn and other crops and the stocking of his farm with cattle.

He prunes and sprays the old trees of the orchard, improving them greatly, and his successful farming astonishes Miles Fagan and other slow going neighbors.

CHAPTER V.

THE spring and summer—in fact, the whole year was a very busy one for Sam. And it was not less so for Florence and Mrs. Powell. Florence often helped her brother when the work crowded, and Mrs. Powell put in all her spare time in the garden, melon patch and orchard.

On the contest acre Sam was forced to do all the work himself. The rules were strict on this point, and after Sam's patch had been laid off and measured by a committee he himself planted the corn and no one else struck a lick in its cultivation.

Sam's first planting was the Irish potatoes. He bedded up an acre, dragged down the beds almost flat and planted them early in March. Next came the contest acre, and when that was finished he planted four more acres in corn, making five in all, then turned to the cotton.

Next came the cane, and Sam sowed this broadcast and very thick, for he wanted to make hay of it. If the stalks grow large and stiff it doesn't make good hay.

The young farmer wound up the first round of planting by sowing the orchard in rye. His idea was to let no bit of ground lie idle, but to keep some thing growing on it instead of weeds.

The weed problem was a pretty hard one for Sam, so many had gone to seed on the place. But he determined that not one should make seed this year. So he was the busiest farmer in the whole community. He plowed and hoed constantly, but it was mostly plowing, for Sam soon learned that hoeing is a mighty slow way to kill weeds and grass compared with plowing.

People passing along by the Powell place marveled at the clean, well cultivated little farm. But Sam considered other needs of the crops besides cultivation.

The soil of the place was not nearly so poor as the neighbors had said it was—not even so poor as Sam had thought. The trouble was that the surface of the ground had merely been scratched, and he had remedied this by thorough cultivation. Still the crops lacked something, and he found that each acre had certain qualities. As he studied the farm he began to see that each bit of land was strong in certain ways and weak in others.

There was no time to have soil analysis made this year, but he began to study closely the wild vegetation and trees growing about and to read the bulletins and the book he had bought on "How Crops Grow." It wasn't an easy subject by any means. Sam read and reread the book and finally went over it slowly and studied it page by page. Pretty soon he knew nearly as much about the soil he was cultivating as any expert could have told him. Here is what he learned about soil fertility:

Acid in soil that causes crops to die and die is indicated by sorrel growing on the land. Acid can easily be detected also by getting a slip of blue litmus paper for a nickel at the drug store and pressing it in a ball of the soil. If it turns red there is acid. An application of lime cures this.

Crops and plants of all kinds are fed by several elements of the soil, but there are three more important than the rest—nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid.

Nitrogen forms the leaves of plants—that part of the plant body which breathes.

Potash makes the trunk, stalk and tuber of plant or tree.

Phosphoric acid reproduces—sets the blooms and makes abundant seed and fruit.

Sam learned these things from reading. But, when he knew them, all he had to do was to look about the farm and learn more things by observation.

Where trees grew or had grown well he knew that potash was plentiful. If leaves were rank, nitrogen was abundant. If flowers formed and fell off the plants before they should he knew the soil needed phosphoric acid.

Finally the young farmer formed what he had learned into nine rules and wrote them down in the back of one of his books, as follows:

"1 Nitrogen (or ammonia) encour ages strong leaf, vine and bush growth.

"2. Potash makes firm tuber, bulb and fiber.

"3. Phosphoric acid makes blooms set and seeds and seed pods form abundantly.

"4. If the wild growth on your farm is profuse and your tomatoes and melons

Underneath the Dust Mulch He Found That the Soil Was Perfectly Wet.

on vines run to leaf your soil is rich in nitrogen.

"5. If trees do not thrive, onions seem soggy and tomato vines lack sturdiness of stalk the soil needs potash.

"6. If your tomatoes, melons, grain and cotton fail to set plenty of seed and fruit phosphoric acid is called for.

"7. If you expect to take from your land a crop rich in leaf, as lettuce, increase the proportion of nitrogen in your fertilizer.

"8. If potatoes or onions are desired provide plenty of potash.

"9. If abundant corn, wheat, cotton bolls, melons, peaches, strawberries or tomatoes are wanted see to the phosphoric acid."

Sam made use of what he had learned in planting and cultivating his crops. He watched them closely, and if it seemed to him that any of them were not doing well he began to hunt and study out the cause.

Although he had fertilized all of the farm to some extent before plowing, he worked manure into the furrows when he planted his cotton and tried to give everything he planted the food it demanded to do its best. He found out that one good way to apply this food was to sprinkle it on the surface of the ground around the plants and work it in gently with hoe or rake.

Sam made a top application of this kind to his cotton when it was well advanced in the summer. The soil of the contest acre had been well fertilized in the beginning, but Sam didn't want that corn to lack for any of the elements it needed to make two big, long ears to each stalk and sometimes three. He waited until it was just about ready to silk; then he went to town and bought 400 pounds of fertilizer. He had this mixed to suit himself, for he had figured out just what he thought the corn needed—so much nitrogen and so much phosphoric acid. With this fertilizer he went over each row of the acre, sprinkled it around the stalks and worked it into the soil.

Fine as the corn was before, it now showed still further improvement. In a few days it was in full silk, and it seemed to leap up on receiving the stimulating food around its roots. But Sam wasn't through with the acre yet. Every now and then he went over it with a plow, just skimming the surface to break up the crust that commenced to form. One month it was unusually dry, and the young farmer had a chance to see the good effect of this work. His corn kept its dark green color, and by scratching down two inches, just underneath the dust mulch, he found that the soil was perfectly wet.

Fagan's corn across the fence was burning and withering in the sun. Sam climbed over the fence one day and examined the soil. He found it baked hard on top, and when he took his knife and dug a little hole he had to go nearly six inches before he found the slightest moisture.

"That shows what conserving the moisture will do," he said to himself as he went back to his field. "I've plowed this acre a good many times, but it's been easy work and didn't take long to do it, because it's in good condition. I may be mistaken, but I believe I'm going to make a lot of corn at mighty little cost on this patch."

Late in the summer, when the corn was almost made and when other farmers had long ago laid by their corn, Sam gave his contest acre a final plowing and sowed black eyed peas broadcast among it as he did so. He had done his best, and it remained to be seen whether other boys in his state could beat him.

But if Sam Powell was through with the one acre he wasn't through work by any means. In fact, he didn't have much time to think about the contest.

"BOY PLUNGER" NOW BANKRUPT

Jesse Livermore Loses Fortune Made by Speculation.

OWES MORE THAN $100,000

Bought Mansion, Yacht and String of Automobiles After Stock Market Panic of 1907—Reported to Have Lost $3,000,000 When He Tried to Corner Cotton in 1908.

Jesse L. Livermore, the "boy plunger," who "ran a shoestring into a fortune" by Wall street manipulation, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He gives his liabilities as $102,474 and places no value on his assets, which are meager.

Mr. Livermore once described himself as a "bucket shop graduate." Born in Massachusetts in 1877, he went to work in a Boston broker's office at the age of sixteen, marking quotations on a bulletin board and receiving $6 a week.

With $30 saved out of his salary Livermore embarked on the stormy seas of speculation. He took his first plunge in one of the "bucket shops" in the Hub—and came out on top. Flushed with this success and with confidence in his luck, he abandoned his job and started trading for himself. Before he was twenty-one years old he had made a comfortable fortune.

In 1906 he went to New York, having tried Boston, Denver and Chicago and yearning for bigger game. When he started in New York his stake was $25,000. Before long this had been stretched into $250,000.

When the panic of 1907 came he had realized that overspeculation and overextension would be followed by disastrous liquidation and put out a short line of Union Pacific, Reading, Copper and Smelters. When the crash came he was able to cover every contract and start on a trip to Europe. He bought a mansion, a yacht and a string of automobiles, and Wall street spoke of him as a "wise young man."

Big Gambles in Cotton.

Then he became interested in cotton. On his return from Europe, after the situation here had cleared up, he found the cotton market oversold and everybody short. He sprang his big cotton coup and came out between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 ahead. Wall street was now convinced that he was a "wise young man."

In 1908 he tried to corner cotton and was reported to have lost about $3,000,000. After that he was not heard from again until 1913, when suit was brought against him by the liquidating partners of the Stock Exchange firm of Mitchell & Co. Then he dropped out of view until the petition was filed. Most of the claims, the petition states, are for money due on promissory notes given for transactions in the open market in 1913 and 1914.

At the time of his failure, in 1913, Livermore announced that he had invested $400,000 in an annuity which brought him an income of $20,000 and could not be touched. No mention of this is made in the bankruptcy petition. He lives with his wife at Bretton Hall, Broadway and Eighty-sixth street, New York.

In the petition filed the principal claims are: Mitchell & Co., $27,463; Murray Mitchell, $16,000; Chapman & Seaman, $7,207; H. F. Bachman & Co., $9,740; Wagner, Dickerson & Co., $6,982; and Duryea, Tappin & Co., $6,355. The assets include 5,000 shares of West Tonopah Consolidated Mining company, fifteen shares preferred and seven common of Long Island Motor Parkway stock, one share of stock of the Dunwoody country club, and a claim against C. A. Little for $6,426.

The Jitneys.

The jitney, in the picturesque and untrammeled language of certain parts of our country, is a five cent piece. By the simple process of transference it has now come to mean in a growing number of western cities a motorbus that runs regularly over a given route in competition with trolley lines or, not, as the case may be, and carries passengers for a five cent fare. The city of its origin is a bit uncertain—though probably the idea came from the European cities, where a similar system has revolutionized urban and suburban transportation—but presumably it was in progressive California, for most of the cities there appear to be well fitted out with flying squadrons of jitneys.—Boston Herald.

Representative O. J. Thatcher of Clinton county, the author of the free text book bill and the bill permitting an increase in passenger fares to 2½ cents is perhaps, the final authority on school matters in the present assembly.

Since 1878 Mr. Thatcher has either been engaged in teaching or being taught himself. He is now living on his farm near Wilmington, holding an occasional history class in Wilmington college.

After graduating from this school, in the early eighties, Representative Thatcher went abroad and studied in Berlin, in the American colleges in Rome and Athens and in the Library in Paris. From 1892 until 1906 he was professor of European history in the University of Chicago, resigning in the latter year.

Continuing, he said: "I have known for a month that I would introduce such a bill, unless some one else was quicker than I, but I did not give that information to anyone else. The interstate commerce commission has told the railroads that they must get a greater per cent of revenue from their passenger earnings before they will be entitled to any further consideration in freight rates. I feel, therefore, that the railroads are entitled to every fair opportunity to present their case, and I am assuming that they will do so. I hold no brief from any railroad, and will determine my final attitude toward the bill by the evidence which may be produced."

FOR WAR EXPENSES

London, March 2.—The house of commons unanimously voted appropriations for war expenditures amounting to $1,435,000,000, making the total voted for war expenses to date $3,235,000,000. The premier first asked for an appropriation of $185,000,000 for the remainder of the period up to March 31. This was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Premier Asquith then stated that the war expenditures were growing steadily and that after April 1 they would probably average $8,500,000 a day. He therefore asked for a second appropriation of $1,250,000,000 for expenses subsequent to March 31. This was also granted unanimously, being the largest grant ever allowed by parliament. As the preceding war expenses had been $1,800,000,000, it brought the grand total up to $3,235,000,000.

The premier's reference to the increase in the expenses after March 31 is taken to mean that Kitchener's new armies will be in France by that time. Recent reports state that the British now have approximately 1,000,000 in France and that transports are carrying men across the channel daily. Mr. Asquith said England was so situated financially that the drain upon her resources could continue for years without causing an actual crisis.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Dropsy.
Dropsy is an accumulation of watery fluid beneath the skin or in one or more of the cavities of the body. Like some other symptoms, it is often mistaken for a disease in itself, and we constantly hear it said that some one has "died of dropsy." But people do not die of a symptom; they die of the disease that lies back of the symptom. Any disorder that causes the blood to become impoverished and watery and at the same time to flow through the veins with increased pressure can cause dropsy. For that reason it is often associated with serious forms of heart or kidney disease.

When the dropsy is a symptom of organic disorder it is the disease that must receive treatment. At the same time much can be done to alleviate the dropsical condition. That part of the body which contains the excess of fluid should be kept elevated. If it is the abdomen the patient should remain lying down. When the kidneys are at fault there are certain drugs that can be taken, always under the advice of the physician. They will increase the action of the kidneys and reduce the blood pressure. When the accumulation of fluid is excessive and does not yield to treatment, and especially when it is in the abdomen, it can be relieved by "tapping," a process that can be repeated as often as the physician thinks it wise.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. ### SYNOPSIS.

Sam Powell, inspired by a government agent, plans to make a scientific farmer of himself and to compete for prizes awarded to the boys' Corn club. Sam works hard cleaning up and fertilizing the wornout farm. Miles Pagan ridicules scientific farming, but lets his boy join the corn club. While blowing out stumps Sam saves Joe Watson's life. Sam plans his contest acre of corn and other crops and the stocking of his farm with cattle. He prunes and sprays the old trees of the orchard, improving them greatly, and his successful farming astonishes Miles Pagan and other slow going neighbors.

CHAPTER V.

THE spring and summer—in fact, the whole year was a very busy one for Sam. And it was not less so for Florence and Mrs. Powell. Florence often helped her brother when the work crowded, and Mrs. Powell put in all her spare time in the garden, melon patch and orchard. On the contest acre Sam was forced to do all the work himself. The rules were strict on this point, and after Sam's patch had been laid off and measured by a committee he himself planted the corn and no one else struck a lick in its cultivation. Sam's first planting was the Irish potatoes. He bedded up an acre, dragged down the beds almost flat and planted them early in March. Next came the contest acre, and when that was finished he planted four more acres in corn, making five in all, then turned to the cotton.

Next came the cane, and Sam sowed this broadcast and very thick, for he wanted to make hay of it. If the stalks grow large and stiff it doesn't make good hay. The young farmer wound up the first round of planting by sowing the orchard in rye. His idea was to let no bit of ground lie idle, but to keep something growing on it instead of weeds. The weed problem was a pretty hard one for Sam, so many had gone to seed on the place. But he determined that not one should make seed this year. So he was the busiest farmer in the whole community. He plowed and hoed constantly, but it was mostly plowing, for Sam soon learned that hoeing is a mighty slow way to kill weeds and grass compared with plowing.

People passing along by the Powell place marveled at the clean, well cultivated little farm. But Sam considered other needs of the crops besides cultivation. The soil of the place was not nearly so poor as the neighbors had said it was—not even so poor as Sam had thought. The trouble was that the surface of the ground had merely been scratched, and he had remedied this by thorough cultivation. Still the crops lacked something, and he found that each acre had certain qualities. As he studied the farm he began to see that each bit of land was strong in certain ways and weak in others.

There was no time to have soil analysis made this year, but he began to study closely the wild vegetation and trees growing about and to read the bulletins and the book he had bought on "How Crops Grow." It wasn't an easy subject by any means. Sam read and reread the book and finally went over it slowly and studied it page by page. Pretty soon he knew nearly as much about the soil he was cultivating as any expert could have told him. Here is what he learned about soil fertility:

Acid in soil that causes crops to die and die is indicated by sorrel growing on the land. Acid can easily be detected also by getting a slip of blue litmus paper for a nickel at the drug store and pressing it in a ball of the soil. If it turns red there is acid. An application of lime cures this.

Crops and plants of all kinds are fed by several elements of the soil, but there are three more important than the rest—nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid.

Nitrogen forms the leaves of plants—that part of the plant body which breathes. Potash makes the trunk, stalk and tuber of plant or tree.

Phosphoric acid reproduces—sets the blooms and makes abundant seed and fruit. Sam learned these things from reading. But when he knew them, all he had to do was to look about the farm and learn more things by observation.

Where trees grew or had grown well he knew that potash was plentiful. If leaves were rank, nitrogen was abundant. If flowers formed and fell off the plants before they should he knew the soil needed phosphoric acid.

Finally the young farmer formed what he had learned into nine rules and wrote them down in the back of one of his books, as follows:

Underneath the Dust Mulch He Found That the Soil Was Perfectly Wet.

on vines run to leaf your soil is rich in nitrogen.
"5. If trees do not thrive, onions seem soggy and tomato vines lack sturdiness of stalk the soil needs potash.
"6. If your tomatoes, melons, grain and cotton fail to set plenty of seed and fruit phosphoric acid is called for.
"7. If you expect to take from your land a crop rich in leaf, as lettuce, increase the proportion of nitrogen in your fertilizer.
"8. If potatoes or onions are desired provide plenty of potash.
"9. If abundant corn, wheat, cotton bolls, melons, peaches, strawberries or tomatoes are wanted see to the phosphoric acid."

Sam made use of what he had learned in planting and cultivating his crops. He watched them closely, and if it seemed to him that any of them were not doing well he began to hunt and study out the cause. Although he had fertilized all of the farm to some extent before plowing, he worked manure into the furrows when he planted his cotton and tried to give everything he planted the food it demanded to do its best. He found out that one good way to apply this food was to sprinkle it on the surface of the ground around the plants and work it in gently with hoe or rake.

Sam made a top application of this kind to his cotton when it was well advanced in the summer. The soil of the contest acre had been well fertilized in the beginning, but Sam didn't want that corn to lack for any of the elements it needed to make two big, long ears to each stalk and sometimes three. He waited until it was just about ready to silk; then he went to town and bought 400 pounds of fertilizer. He had this mixed to suit him self, for he had figured out just what he thought the corn needed—so much nitrogen and so much phosphoric acid. With this fertilizer he went over each row of the acre, sprinkled it around the stalks and worked it into the soil.

Fine as the corn was before, it now showed still further improvement. In a few days it was in full silk, and it seemed to leap up on receiving the stimulating food around its roots. But Sam wasn't through with the acre yet. Every now and then he went over it with a plow, just skimming the surface to break up the crust that commenced to form. One month it was unusually dry, and the young farmer had a chance to see the good effect of this work. His corn kept its dark green color and by scratching down two inches, just underneath the dust mulch, he found that the soil was perfectly wet.

Pagan's corn across the fence was burning and withering in the sun. Sam climbed over the fence one day and examined the soil. He found it baked hard on top, and when he took his knife and dug a little hole he had to go nearly six inches before he found the slightest moisture. "That shows what conserving the moisture will do," he said to himself as he went back to his field. "I've plowed this acre a good many times, but it's been easy work and didn't take long to do it, because it's in good condition. I may be mistaken, but I believe I'm going to make a lot of corn at mighty little cost on this patch."

Late in the summer, when the corn was almost made and when other farmers had long ago laid by their corn, Sam gave his contest acre a final plowing and sowed black eyed peas broadcast among it as he did so. He had done his best, and it remained to be seen whether other boys in his state could beat him.
But if Sam Powell was through with the one acre he wasn't through work by any means. In fact, he didn't have much time to think about the contest.

"BOY PLUNGER" NOW BANKRUPT

Jesse Livermore Loses Fortune Made by Speculation.

OWES MORE THAN $100,000

Bought Mansion, Yacht and String of Automobiles After Stock Market Panic of 1907—Reported to Have Lost $3,000,000 When He Tried to Corner Cotton in 1908.

Jesse L. Livermore, the "boy plunger," who "ran a shoestring into a fortune" by Wall street manipulation, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He gives his liabilities as $102,474 and places no value on his assets, which are meager.

Mr. Livermore once described himself as a "bucket shop graduate." Born in Massachusetts in 1877, he went to work in a Boston broker's office at the age of sixteen, marking quotations on a bulletin board and receiving $6 a week.

With $30 saved out of his salary Livermore embarked on the stormy seas of speculation. He took his first plunge in one of the "bucket shops" in the Hub—and came out on top. Flushed with this success and with confidence in his luck, he abandoned his job and started trading for himself. Before he was twenty-one years old he had made a comfortable fortune.

In 1906 he went to New York, having tried Boston, Denver and Chicago and yearning for bigger game. When he started in New York his stake was $25,000. Before long this had been stretched into $250,000.

When the panic of 1907 came he had realized that overspeculation and overextension would be followed by disastrous liquidation and put out a short line of Union Pacific, Reading, Copper and Smelters. When the crash came he was able to cover every contract and start on a trip to Europe. He bought a mansion, a yacht and a string of automobiles, and Wall street spoke of him as a "wise young man."

Big Gambles in Cotton. Then he became interested in cotton. On his return from Europe, after the situation here had cleared up, he found the cotton market oversold and everybody short. He sprang his big cotton coup and came out between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 ahead. Wall street was now convinced that he was a "wise young man."

In 1908 he tried to corner cotton and was reported to have lost about $3,000,000. After that he was not heard from again until 1913, when suit was brought against him by the liquidating partners of the stock exchange firm of Mitchell & Co. Then he dropped out of view until the petition was filed. Most of the claims, the petition states, are for money due on promissory notes given for transactions in the open market in 1913 and 1914.

At the time of his failure, in 1913, Livermore announced that he had invested $400,000 in an annuity which brought him an income of $20,000 and could not be touched. No mention of this is made in the bankruptcy petition. He lives with his wife at Bretton Hall, Broadway and Eighty-sixth street, New York.

In the petition filed the principal claims are: Mitchell & Co., $27,463; Murray Mitchell, $16,000; Chapman & Seaman, $7,207; H. F. Bachman & Co., $9,740; Wagner, Dickerson & Co., $6,982; and Duryea, Tappin & Co., $6,355. The assets include 5,000 shares of West Tonopah Consolidated Mining company, fifteen shares preferred and seven common of Long Island Motor Parkway stock, one share of stock of the Dunwoode country club, and a claim against C. A. Litiere for $6,426.

The Jitneys. In the picturesque and untrammelled language of certain parts of our country, is a five cent piece. By the simple process of transference it has now come to mean in a growing number of western cities a motorbus that runs regularly over a given route in competition with trolley lines or not, as the case may be, and carries passengers for a five cent fare. The city of its origin is a bit uncertain—though probably the idea came from the European cities, where a similar system has revolutionized urban and suburban transportation—but presumably it was in progressive California, for most of the cities there appear to be well fitted out with flying squadrons of jitneys.—Boston Herald.

OLIVER J. THATCHER

Clinton County Representative Favors Higher Passenger Fares

THATCHER EXPLAINS RAILROAD MEASURE

Says He Believes Ohio Lines Entitled to Higher Fares.

Representative O. J. Thatcher of Clinton county, the author of the free text book bill and the bill permitting an increase in passenger fares to 2 1/2 cents is perhaps, the final authority on school matters in the present assembly.

Since 1878 Mr. Thatcher has either been engaged in teaching or being taught himself. He is now living on his farm near Wilmington, holding an occasional history class in Wilmington college.

After graduating from this school in the early eighties, Representative Thatcher went abroad and studied in Berlin, in the American colleges in Rome and Athens and in the Library in Paris. From 1892 until 1906 he was professor of European history in the University of Chicago, resigning in the latter year.

In speaking of his bill to increase passenger fares in Ohio from 2 to 2 1/2 cents, Representative Thatcher said: "I introduced the bill absolutely of my own volition and without suggestion from any of the railroads or railroad men in Ohio, convinced that the railroads of this state were entitled to a hearing."

Continuing, he said: "I have known for a month that I would introduce such a bill, unless some one else was quicker than I, but I did not give that information to anyone else. The interstate commerce commission has told the railroads that they must first get a greater per cent of revenue from their passenger earnings before they will be entitled to any further consideration in freight rates. I feel, therefore, that the railroads are entitled to every fair opportunity to present their case, and I am assuming that they will do so. I hold no brief from any railroad, and will determine my final attitude toward the bill by the evidence which may be produced."

Her Wavering Affections. "Hubby, I'm in love with that hat." "You fall in love with too many hats. If you'll promise to remain constant to that one as much as six weeks I'll buy it for you."—Buffalo News

FOR WAR EXPENSES

London, March 2.—The house of commons unanimously voted appropriations for war expenditures amounting to $1,435,000,000, making the total voted for war expenses to date $3,235,000,000. The premier first asked for an appropriation of $185,000,000 for the remainder of the period up to March 31. This was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Premier Asquith then stated that the war expenditures were growing steadily and that after April 1 they would probably average $8,500,000 a day. He therefore asked for a second appropriation of $1,250,000,000 for expenses subsequent to March 31. This was also granted unanimously, being the largest grant ever allowed by parliament. As the preceding war expenses had been $1,800,000,000, it brought the grand total up to $3,235,000,000.

The premier's reference to the increase in the expenses after March 31 is taken to mean that Kitchener's new armies will be in France by that time. Recent reports state that the British now have approximately 1,000,000 in France and that transports are carrying men across the channel daily. Mr. Asquith said England was so situated financially that the drain upon her resources could continue for years without causing an actual crisis.

ENGLAND DENIES SEIZURE ARRANGEMENT

London, March 2.—The foreign office issued a denial of reports that an arrangement had been made by which the seizure of the American steamship Dacia was turned over to the French government, and states that the treatment of a French prize court will not be any harsher than a British court.

GERMANY MAKES REPLY

Berlin, March 2.—Germany has accepted, "with a few modifications," the American proposals looking to a modification of the "war zone" campaign and to the removal by the allies of the embargo on food for Germany. In the reply to the American note, Germany suggests that in accordance with the principles of international law the importation should be permitted not only of foodstuffs, but also of such raw materials as are necessary for the peaceful civilian population.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Dropsy.

Dropsy is an accumulation of watery fluid beneath the skin or in one or more of the cavities of the body. Like some other symptoms, it is often mistaken for a disease in itself, and we constantly hear it said that some one has "died of dropsy." But people do not die of a symptom; they die of the disease that lies back of the symptom. Any disorder that causes the blood to become impoverished and watery and at the same time to flow through the veins with increased pressure can cause dropsy. For that reason it is often associated with serious forms of heart or kidney disease.

When the dropsy is a symptom of organic disorder it is the disease that must receive treatment. At the same time much can be done to alleviate the dropsical condition. That part of the body which contains the excess of fluid should be kept elevated. If it is the abdomen the patient should remain lying down. When the kidneys are at fault there are certain drugs that can be taken, always under the advice of the physician. They will increase the action of the kidneys and reduce the blood pressure. When the accumulation of fluid is excessive and does not yield to treatment, and especially when it is in the abdomen, it can be relieved by "tapping," a process that can be repeated as often as the physician thinks it wise.

REGULAR SESSION OF CITY SOLONS HELD LAST NIGHT

Asphalt Paving Receives More Attention—Several Important Matters Carried Over Until Next Meeting—City Compromises Suit To Collect Unpaid Funds—Yeoman Street Is To Be Improved—Next Meeting March 15th.

The regular session of council, Monday night, was watched with interest by quite a number of citizens, and some of the most important matters coming up were postponed until the next meeting, which will be Monday night, March 15th.

Owing to the illness of President Melvin, the president pro tem., L. P. Howell, presided.

The first business taken up was a complaint against alleged misuse of a sewer or drain, in Millwood. The citizen making the complaint was informed that the Board of Health would investigate the complaint. A second complaint was made concerning another drain in Millwood, and during the discussion it was stated that a number of new residences used ordinary drains for sewer purposes, and no fee for tapping a sewer had been paid. It was stated that any drain or sewer emptying in a city sewer, made the person tapping such "private" sewer liable for the tapping fee of $25.

Charles G. Spindler, representing the Andrews Asphalt Paving Company, of Hamilton, Ohio, addressed council, asking that the Washington avenue improvement call for bids include asphalt. Some objection was made to this on the ground that delay would be occasioned.

Mr. Spindler also stated that if the company could bid on 25,000 yards of asphalt paving, that a much lower rate could be offered than for only 8,000 or 10,000 yards, owing to the expense of placing the equipment on the ground ready for work. He also said that no expensive plant was necessary to make repairs on asphalt streets. Asphaltic concrete, he stated, was about as durable as asphalt, and was 20c to 30c cheaper per square yard.

Attention was called to the fact that large cities were laying more asphalt paving than brick, and that the smaller cities were beginning to fall in line.

Member Whelpley stated that while in Canton recently he had investigated asphalt paving, and found it very satisfactory. Nitrogen lamps for street lighting also were found most satisfactory.

More time was granted the Ways and Means committee on the proposed sale of the city lot and purchase of the Arcade block.

A resolution to amend the East Court street ordinance so that asphalt and other materials would be included in the call for bids, was read and passed.

John Paul objected to including asphalt, stating that the majority of the citizens on the street wanted brick. He was informed that by including asphalt and other materials, a lower bid could be obtained for paving with brick.

The finance committee, through Member Rowe, reported on the proposal of former Mayor Smith to compromise with the city for $150, and with the county for $200, for a short-lease which recently resulted in suits for collection. Rowe stated that the County Commissioners had stated that if the county owed the former Mayor anything, it would be paid, but all that was due the county must be paid accordingly.

Upon motion of Sheets that the city compromise the case for $150, a resolution was submitted covering the matter, and the resolution was adopted.

No action was taken on the Leesburg avenue paving resolution, the committee asking for more time, which was granted.

A petition signed by quite a number of property owners on Yeoman street was submitted. The property owners asked that the street be improved by means of macadam, concrete or other material. The solicitor was ordered to prepare the necessary resolution and the Engineer to prepare plans and specifications covering the improvement, and report at the next meeting. The city is to pay one-third of the cost.

The only vote against the Yeoman street improvement was that of M. Tracey, who stated that he voted against the proposal because the property owners of that street had never paid for previous improvements made on that thoroughfare.

The resolution to pave the Craig-Penn alley, between Washington avenue and East street, was passed, the property owners bearing 98 per cent of the cost.

Petitions for lights on Harrison street and on Elm street, were placed in the hands of the Service Committee, and the statement was made that the new lighting system would cover the applications, as it was proposed to place a light at each street intersection.

A protest against paving South Main street was read and placed on file. No action having been taken to pave the street, the protest received no further attention.

City Auditor McFadden's monthly report was read and placed on file.

Upon motion by Whelpley, a sewer was ordered constructed on West Temple street, from Hinde to a suitable outlet. A number of sewer taps will be made on the new sewer proposed.

Howell called attention to the need of immediate action toward making a new contract for street lights. He urged that the committee obtain some definite idea of the kind of lights wanted and number desired, and that the call for bids be advertised as soon as possible. Sheets insisted that a test of the new lamps installed should be made. He thought the entire council should meet in secret session after the investigation had been made, and action be taken accordingly.

Upon motion by Whelpley it was decided that the entire council act upon the problem, instead of the committee. Service Director Gerstner was included to meet with council when the council should be called together.

Council then adjourned.

MORGAN SPEAKS TO 30 YOUNGSTERS

THE OLD RELIABLE STILL IN THE LEAD

Twenty young lads, members of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department, heard Prof. Geoffrey H. Morgan in the first of his series of addresses on the "Ten Commandments" at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. The address was preceded by a supper.

Professor Morgan spoke on the First and Second Commandments dwelling at particular length on a discussion of the query, "Is There a God?" He did not answer the question but presented the obvious in a convincing manner, citing numerous natural phenomena that can be attributed to but one supreme power.

MOVING TIME IS HERE ONCE MORE

The country's annual moving time is here.

It is a case of all movers moving at the same time, or a widespread exchange of places of abode, and several hundred families in this county are moving into new homes, just vacated by another family which moves elsewhere.

March 1st long has been the country's moving day, and tenants are then able to settle down to their spring work after having completed their work upon the farm where they resided previous to March 1st.

The changing about this season is not as great as it has been during many past years.

WHAT IS DOING IN XENIA WORKS

The monthly report of Supt. Crow, of the Xenia Workhouse, for the month of February, shows the following interesting facts:

The number of prisoners at the institution February first was 90. Thirty-nine were received and 4 discharged during the month. On the 28th day of February there were eighty-five persons in the workhouse. The broom shop turned out 975½ dozen brooms and 733½ dozen whisks. The amount realized for the month was $1332.43. The expenses amounted to $1280.15, which leaves a net gain of $52.28. The shop was idle one day on account of no material being on hand.

KYLE PLANT OPENS EVERY DEPARTMENT

The Kyle Manufacturing Company Friday opened its plant on the West Side in practically all of its departments and it was a busy day over there. The foundry department was operated and the first molten metal was run off about three o'clock.

This is one of the big concerns of the city of which much is being expected as time goes on. The company is starting out on a small scale, however, and expects to grow.—Lancaster Eagle.

BRYCE LAUDS YANKS

Cleveland, O., March 2.—An important contribution to current discussion of ways and means for averting war has been made by the following letter from James Bryce, British jurist and former British ambassador at Washington, to Charles P. Thwing, president of the Intercollegiate Peace Association, and made public recently:

"My Dear President Thwing:

"At such a time as this, it is especially cheering to the friends of peace on this distracted continent to hear of such an Association as that over which you preside. The awful calamity of a world-wide war in which more than half of the human race are involved, compels us to study more earnestly than ever before the means by which war may be averted. Chief among these means are two. One is the maintenance of the faith of treaties as the guarantee of safety to small nations. For those things—the faith of treaties and the rights of unhappy Belgium, England is now fighting and it is the justice of that cause and compassion for the suffering of the innocent that has won the sympathy of the vast majority of the American people.

"The other means is the setting up of Arbitration as the proper method for settling international disputes.

"Your nation has led the world in this worthy cause; and both America and England have by their resort to this method set many examples and given many proofs of their belief in its value. I earnestly trust that your Association may do much to extend and strengthen the power of this beneficent principle. Let me wish it all success; and let us all hope that the increasing influence of American opinion may be more and more exerted for the promotion of peace and good will throughout the world.

"Believe me
"Always faithfully yours,
"JAMES BRYCE."

NO NEW CASES OF SMALL POX

The small pox scare, which originated in the Black Oak school neighborhood, six miles north-west of this city, has about subsided, and several of the homes quarantined have been freed from further restrictions.

No new cases of the disease have developed during the past ten days, it is stated, and the quarantine will be lifted from a number of homes in the near future.

So far the Black Oak school has not been reopened, but this action is expected within the next week or two.

The physicians in charge and health officials have been complimented on the success of the work in preventing a general spread of the epidemic.
